Reily, Patrick Manning

Patrick Manning Reily
March 25, 1941 - November 7, 2026

Patrick Manning Reily died peacefully at his home in Miramar Beach, Florida on November 7, 2026. Patrick Reily was born in New Orleans, Louisiana on March 25, 1941, to James Weaks Reily Jr. and Lelia Manning Reily. He attended Metairie Park Country Day School and graduated from Christ School in Arden, North Carolina. Patrick was an avid sportsman playing soccer, football and tennis. He graduated from Tulane University and membership in the Delta Kappa Epsilon (DKE) fraternity. Upon graduation, he joined a cargo ship crew to Venice and then traveled around Europe, meeting up with friends from Tulane and making new acquaintances. Ultimately, Patrick returned to New Orleans and earned a Juris Doctor from Tulane University, class of 1967. He joined the law firm Polack & Rosenberg (Polack, Rosenberg & Rittenberg) and later became the law partner of DeLesseps Story "Toni" Morrison Jr. As a general practice lawyer, Patrick took on a wide variety of cases and found satisfaction in "working for people who couldn't afford representation." During this time, Patrick had two sons with former wife Suzette Fransen: Michael Patrick and Gavin Sean.

Patrick's father encouraged him to study law as he had shown an inclination to the field on an aptitude test, but a legal career was never truly fulfilling. He often sought opportunities to do more with his law degree. In 1977 he campaigned on behalf of "Toni" Morrison's mayoral campaign in New Orleans. Later in 1979, at 38 years old Patrick ran for the judgeship of Civil District Court, Div. H. His campaign focused on his youth and energy and a commitment to speeding up the local justice system. Unsuccessful, he later provided legal counsel for Toni" Morrison's campaign for mayor of New Orleans. But politics did not fulfill his desire for a greater purpose. He moved to Atlanta and was admitted to the Georgia Bar in 1993 and ultimately found that deeper service in pro bono work with the Lawyer Assistance Program (LAP) of the State Bar of Georgia. This program started in the mid-1980s as a grassroots peer support effort for attorneys struggling with substance abuse. In 1988 the American Bar Association created the Commission on Impaired Attorneys which later became LAP. Providing confidential support, counseling, and peer resources, its model has been adopted by many states across the U.S.A. Patrick finally found his higher calling. He became the Executive Director of the Georgia program, received intervention training at the Center of Alcoholic Studies of Rutgers University, NJ and attended ILAA (International Lawyers AA) conferences. Patrick travelled across Georgia helping attorneys, judges and their families. He said, "it was always satisfying when you could save a life."

Forever curious, Patrick jumped at any opportunity to learn something new or take on a project. From pursuing his pilot's license at 16, crewing a friend's sailboat around the Mediterranean, playing competitive poker, to racing his Alfa Romeo Spyder with the Sportscar Club of America, his restless soul was always moving. Constantly intrigued by how things worked, he was a capable handyman and loved being useful. He enjoyed talking but not on the phone, although his butt dial phone calls were a common occurrence and a good reminder for his boys and grandchildren to give him a call. He loved checking in with his grandchildren and they were the source of great joy to him.

Spurred by his deep love of art and architecture, Patrick loved to travel and throughout his life explored the world on his own, with his friends, and ultimately with his wife Dale. The two of them experienced many wonderful cruises and sites including Florence, Ephesus, Xian and Paris. Patrick's interest in history and art was something he loved to share. He was especially fond of the south of France: its food, the lavender fields of the countryside and town fairs. Patrick loved a good meal and was a food connoisseur his entire life, but no chef could top his homemade crème brûlée. A long-time visitor to the white sand beaches of Destin FL, Patrick and Dale moved permanently to their home in Miramar Beach FL in 1999.

Patrick is survived by his wife, Dale Norris Reily, his two sons, Michael Patrick Reily and Gavin Sean Reily, daughters-in-law, Heather Thiessen Reily and Sharlene Dubon, and grandchildren Liam Michael Reily, Hannah Rilla Reily, Claire Madden Reily and Harrison Manning Reily. Patrick is also survived by his younger half-brother, Stephen Rourke Reily and stepsiblings Susu Wilkins Kearney, Molly Tullis Yoder, Eli Tullis, Jr., Garner H. Tullis II, and Wesley Tullis. In addition to his immediate family, Patrick is survived by stepchildren Carolina Cox Medlin and Franklin Vincent Cox III and step grandchildren Carver and Eloise Medlin.

He was predeceased by his parents James Weaks Reily Jr. and Lelia Manning Reily, and brothers Michael Meredith, Timothy Sean and Jonathan Dicks Reily.

Our family would like to extend deep gratitude to his dear friends of the Camel Club of Santa Rosa FL; to his Hospice Care nurses Ashley and Judith; and to his home carers Ayana and Leticia, and Meredith.

Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Many Americans are fortunate to have dental coverage for their entire working life, through employer-provided benefits. When those benefits end with retirement, paying dental bills out-of-pocket can come as a shock, leading people to put off or even go without care.

Simply put – without dental insurance, there may be an important gap in your healthcare coverage.

When you're comparing plans ...

- Look for coverage that helps pay for major services. Some plans may limit the number of procedures – or pay for preventive care only.
- Look for coverage with no deductibles. Some plans may require you to pay hundreds out of pocket before benefits are paid.
- Shop for coverage with no annual maximum on cash benefits. Some plans have annual maximums of $1,000.

Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.[1]

That's right. As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. That means if you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.

Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones.

The best way to prevent large dental bills is preventive care. The American Dental Association recommends checkups twice a year.

Previous dental work can wear out.

Even if you've had quality dental work in the past, you shouldn't take your dental health for granted. In fact, your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.[2]

Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need.

Consider these national average costs of treatment ... $274 for a checkup ... $299 for a filling ... $1,471 for a crown.[3] Unexpected bills like this can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.
